MOVE TOWN FOR DAM

Irregular Project Calls for Relocation of Town and Big Bridge. OKLAHOMA, Tulsa, June 3.—Removal of the entire town of American Falls, Okla., with its population of 2,000 two or three miles to a new site higher than the present location, is to be attempted within a few months by engineers working on a huge irrigation project.

Workers of the Snake river, on which American Falls is located, are to be dammed according to present plans and will be used to reclaim some 40,000 or more acres of arid land now given over to the sage brush.

Engineers say the project is one of the largest ever attempted. The big dam itself will have an abutment of one mile in length and be 60 feet high and will have a base sufficiently strong to stand an additional 50 feet should it ever be deemed necessary to add to its height.

The big reservoir to be filled by the waters backing up from the dam will cover 28 square miles and will have an amount of 1,000,000 square feet. Its waters will extend from American Falls to Blackfoot, a distance of about 30 miles. The reservoir will have a short line of canal 100 miles and at its widest point it will be four miles across and, in places, 50 feet deep.

Reservoir moving the town of American Falls it will be necessary to tear up the Oregon short line railroad and move it to higher ground. A railroad bridge will be raised and a new one constructed to carry the company's plant facilities up the snake river. The southeastern section of the dam will be removed.

The dam site has been selected and preliminary work in the form of a hole for a solid rock foundation has been started.

Disruptive Forces at Work To Split the Allies

The flare-up over the Silesian episode revived, for a moment at least, the persistent German dream of a break in the Entente; and at the same time it brought to the press of the Allied and Associated nations a sobering realization that the failure of France and Great Britain to reconcile their conflicting interests might fan into flames the smoldering hatreds of Europe. Thus, immediately after Lloyd George's flat-footed demand that France and Poland curb Korfanty in Silesia, a Berlin correspondent of the New York World announced "on high authority" that "a beginning has been made toward a rapprochement between Great Britain and Germany, directed against French aggression in the Ruhr and Silesia." Business competition inspired the Anglo-French friction over Silesia, thinks the Springfield Republican, which remarks that "it is plain that the British business world, while it favors the claim of France to a large indemnity, is opposed to a Franco-Polish monopoly of the coal of Europe." The Pittsburgh Leader hits at French plans for a war on Russia, in which case France would find a strong Poland an invaluable ally.

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, June 4th, presents European and American public opinion upon the Silesian question, and a reading of it will enable the reader to obtain a clear idea of all of the points at issue.

Governor William C. Sproul of Pennsylvania, says:

"The Literary Digest serves a most useful purpose for me. Its condensed presentation of the events and developments of the times, as well as of the literary, historical, and scientific happenings, enables me to keep reasonably well in touch with public opinion and contemporary history. I do not know how I could do this otherwise."
